Quick Reference Guide to Starting Your Business

Do I need a business license?

In almost all cases, the state of Ohio requires businesses to register with the Ohio Secretary of State's office. Other types of licenses and registration are based on the business' legal organization, the types of goods or services offered or business activities.

1 Register your business with the Ohio Secretary of State (see pages 4-6)

Search the business name you want to use in the Ohio Secretary of State's online database at businesssearch.sos.state.oh.us or call the Business Services Division at (877) 767-3453. You must determine what legal structure is best for your business. Forms are online at sos.state.oh.us/businesses/filing-forms--fee-schedule.

2 Will your business have employees?

If the answer is YES, register with the following:

- Internal Revenue Service (IRS) — Form SS-4 (Application for Employer Identification Number). Go to irs.gov or call (800) 829-4933.
- Ohio state agencies (business.ohio.gov):
- Ohio Department of Taxation — Form IT-1 (Tax Withholding and School District Withholding Agent). Call (888) 405-4039.
- Ohio Department of Job and Family Services — Form UCO-1 (Report to Determine Liability). Call (877) 644-6562.
- Ohio Bureau of Workers' Compensation — Form U-3 (Workers' Compensation Coverage). Call (800) 644-6292.

If the answer is NO, register with the following:

- Internal Revenue Service (IRS) — Form SS-4 (Application for Employer Identification Number). Go to irs.gov or call (800) 829-4933.
- Ohio Bureau of Workers' Compensation — Form U-3 (Workers' Compensation Coverage). Call (800) 644-6292.

3 Register your business with Ohio Department of Taxation (see page 7)

- Vendor's License — Registration sets your business up to collect and remit Ohio sales tax.
- Commercial Activity Tax (CAT) — Registration is required after your gross sales reach $150,000.
- Online registrations with Ohio Business Gateway at business.ohio.gov to file and pay many types of taxes.

4 Special licenses or registrations

A checklist is available at business.ohio.gov/starting in a drop-down menu under Checklists. The checklist provides additional information, specific to the type of business, along with applicable Ohio Revised Code (ORC) and regulating agencies. Special assistance also is available from the Ohio Department of Taxation in the Business Self Help eLibrary at tax.ohio.gov/self_help/self_help.aspx.

For more, go to the Ohio Business Gateway's frequently asked questions at business.ohio.gov/efiling/help.

Business Planning

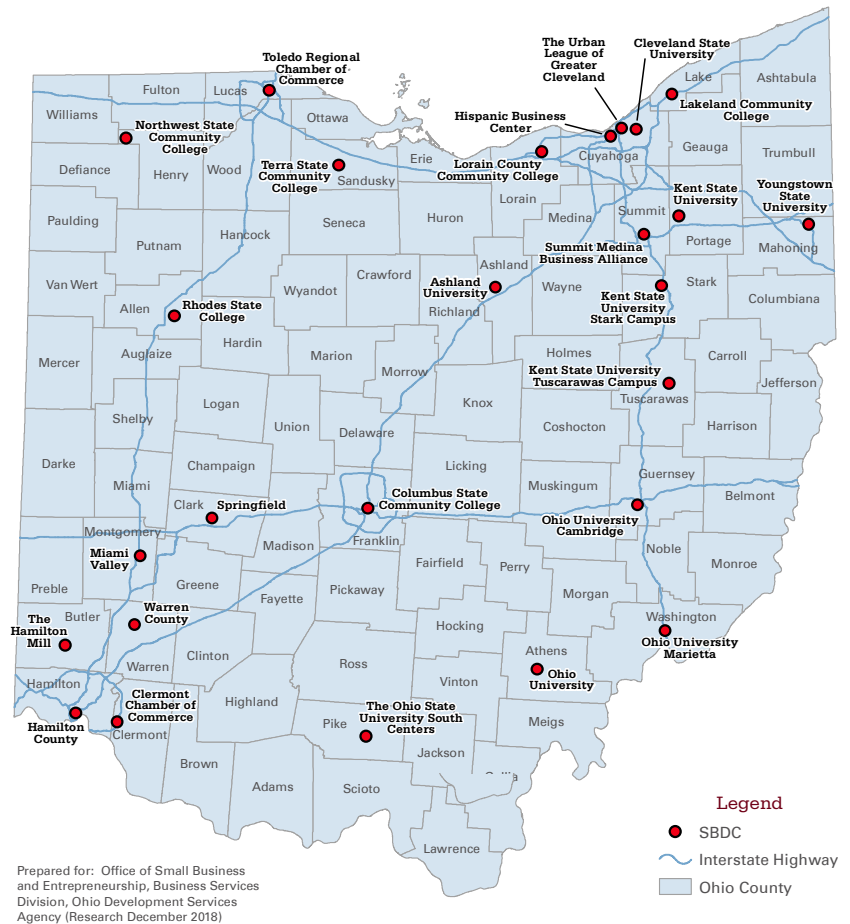

Developing a Business Plan

One of the first steps in starting a business is developing a business plan. A business plan defines what a company must accomplish, acquire and learn before it gets started. A business plan also can be used as a tool to access capital. It provides information to bankers and future employees about a company's goals and organizational structure.

A questionnaire to help you through the process begins on Page 12 of this guide.

How Should I Register My Business?

As an entrepreneur or future business owner, it is important to decide how to register your business. Selecting the right business structure in the beginning will protect you from issues in the future.

In Ohio, there are six legal structures for businesses:

- Sole proprietorship
- General partnership
- Limited partnership
- Limited liability partnership
- Limited liability company (for profit and nonprofit)
- Corporation (for profit, nonprofit and professional)

You will register by filing forms based on your choice of legal structure. The name of your business also will be secured when you file these specific forms.

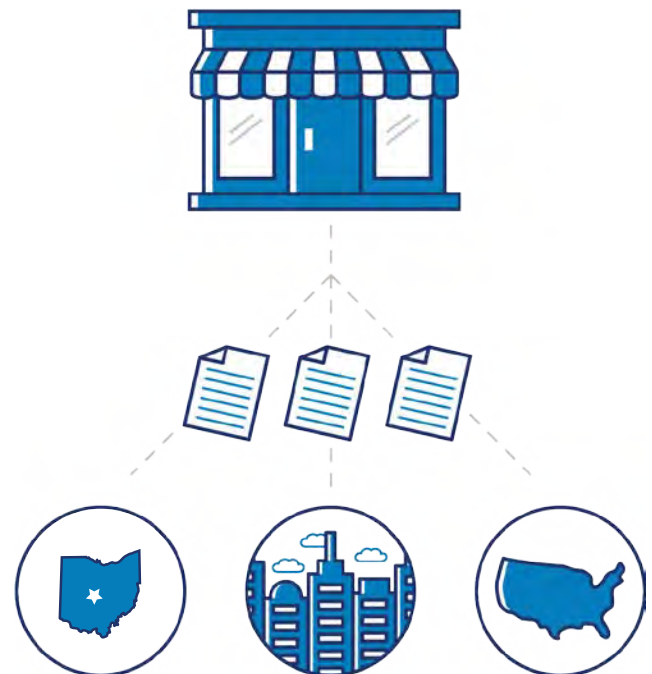

Review the options and explore more in an overview available from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA):

OVERVIEW

CHOOSE A BUSINESS STRUCTURE >

sba.gov/business-guide/launch-your-business/choose-business-structure

Because the type of business entity you register as can affect both tax and legal liabilities, it is strongly encouraged that you seek professional legal and/or accounting advice when forming your business. Find out how you need to register your business at a state, local or federal level.

Detailed information on state business filings and forms can be found at the Ohio Secretary of State's website: sos.state.oh.us.

Naming Your Business

The Ohio Secretary of State's office is the agency of record for legal structure and your business' name. If a proposed name already is registered as a trade name, the Secretary of State's office will tell you that you cannot use it unless you have the permission of the business that has registered the name.

You should search the business name you want to use under the Business Search tool at the Secretary of State's website at sos.state.oh.us/businesses or call the Secretary of State's Business Services Division at (877) 767-3453.

A trade name cannot be used by any other business. Filing prevents any other business from registering the same name with the Ohio Secretary of State. There is a filing fee (Name Registration Form 534A).

A fictitious name is not as protected as a trade name. A fictitious name is registered with the Ohio Secretary of State, but anyone can use it. There is a filing fee (Name Registration Form 534A).

To register your business, visit the Ohio Secretary of State website:

Register with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS)

If you have not registered your business with the Ohio Secretary of State, go to sos.state.oh.us/businesses. Once you have selected your business type, it's time to get your Federal Employment Identification Number (EIN). This is a thumbprint that tells the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) who you are as a business. As an LLC or Sole Proprietor, you can use your Social Security number instead of an EIN until you hire your first employee.

Applying for an EIN is a free service offered by the IRS. Beware of websites on the internet that charge for this free service.

Ways to apply for an EIN#:

- Online
- Fax
- Mail
- Telephone (international applications)

Workers' Compensation Coverage

The Ohio Workers' Compensation Insurance Fund is a no-fault program designed to protect employees and employers when a work-related injury, occupational disease or death occurs.

In Ohio, all employers with one or more employees must have workers' compensation coverage. If you do not plan on having employees, you are self-employed, a partner in a business, or an officer of a family farm corporation, you are not automatically covered.

You may elect optional coverage for yourself. Please consider coverage options at the Ohio Bureau of Workers' Compensation website at bwc.ohio.gov.

Tax Requirements

Throughout the year, you'll have to forward the taxes you have withheld from your employees, remit state and local sales taxes and pay tax on income.

You are strongly encouraged to seek the advice of professional accountants and/or attorneys to determine your applicable local, state and federal tax requirements.

Your next step is to register with the Ohio Business Gateway. Ohio businesses can use the Gateway to register and file commercial activity taxes (CAT), sales taxes, employer withholding taxes, unemployment insurance and municipal income taxes.

The Ohio Business Gateway offers Ohio's businesses a time- and money-saving online filing and payment system that helps simplify business relationships with government agencies.

For technical support and more information, contact the Gateway Help Desk at 1-866-OHIO-GOV (866-644-6468) or visit business.ohio.gov.

Do I Need a Vendor's License?

Ohio Vendor's License

Ohio law requires any person or business making retail sales of tangible personal property or taxable services to register for the sales tax by obtaining a vendor's license. The vendor's license is the mechanism that allows you to collect sales and use taxes from your customers and to remit those sales and use taxes to the Ohio Department of Taxation.

To purchase your vendor's license, you can download the forms from the website at tax.ohio.gov/sales_and_use/license.aspx.

You can apply at your local county auditor or on the Ohio Business Gateway at business.ohio.gov.

To apply for your vendor's license, you will need to identify the NAICS code that best represents your business. The North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) is used by business and government to classify business establishments according to the type of economic activity.

Visit census.gov/eos/www/naics and use the keyword search to identify the NAICS code that best represents the type of business you plan to operate.

How Often Will I Pay Sales and Use Taxes?

Type of Return	Taxpayer	Payment Date
Monthly	Vendors, Sellers, Transient Vendors, Direct Pay Permit Holders and Consumer Use Tax Accounts	By the 23rd day of the month for the tax collected during the preceding month. Taxpayers whose annual liability exceeded $75,000 will be required to make accelerated and final payments by electronic funds transfer.
Quarterly	Direct Pay Permit Holders and Consumer Use Tax Accounts	By the 23rd day of January, April, July and October for their tax liability during the preceding three months. This method of payment may be authorized for accounts with less than $15,000 in quarterly tax liability.
Semi-annual	Vendors, Sellers and Transient Vendors	By the 23rd day of the month following the close of each semi-annual period (pre-determined by filing schedule) for the tax collected during the preceding six-month period. This method of payment may be authorized for vendors and sellers whose tax liability is less than $1,200 per six-month period.

How Much Sales Tax Do I Charge?

The Ohio sales tax rate varies by location across the state. The statewide base rate is 5.75 percent, but you may need to collect additional county or other local sales and use taxes. You can access local tax rates at:

thefinder.tax.ohio.gov/StreamlineSalesTaxWeb.

Certificate of Exemption

The state of Ohio does not issue a sales tax exemption number. A vendor's license number is NOT a sales tax exemption number. To claim exemption, you must provide a properly completed exemption certificate to your supplier. You also must keep such exemption certificates for your customers.

Understanding Environmental Laws

Small businesses, like big businesses, need to know and understand environmental regulations. The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) makes sure everyone complies with environmental laws. The agency monitors land, air and water. Businesses should contact the Ohio EPA while in the planning process. The Ohio EPA has programs, such as the Small Business Assistance Program, that help new businesses understand environmental laws.

Water and Sewer

Before your business connects to a publicly owned wastewater system, the local sewer department must approve it. If your business is constructing a new private disposal system, contact the Ohio EPA for information about regulations.

Hazardous Waste

If your business will create, transport, store, treat or dispose of any hazardous or toxic wastes or used oil, contact the Ohio EPA for information about regulations.

Solid and Infectious Waste

The Ohio EPA regulates the transfer and disposal of nonhazardous solid wastes and scrap tires. Disposal facilities include landfills, compost operations and incinerators. The Ohio EPA also regulates generators and transporters of infectious waste. For information about these regulations, contact the Ohio EPA.

Air

All businesses that emit a certain amount of air contaminants must have permits to install and operate the air contaminant source. The Ohio EPA also should be notified if any building areas with asbestos will be demolished or renovated. Open burning of materials generally is not allowed in Ohio.

To contact the Ohio EPA, go to epa.state.oh.us or call (614) 644-3020.

Consumer Laws

The Ohio Attorney General's office enforces laws to ensure a fair marketplace for businesses and consumers. The Consumer Sales Practices Act (ORC 1345.01 and OAC 109:4-3-01 codes.ohio.gov) is the state's main consumer protection law. It prohibits deceptive, unfair and unconscionable sales practices in consumer transactions. A consumer transaction is a sale or advertisement of a product or service that would be used for the home or personal use. The Ohio Attorney General has a helpful publication outlining how to comply with the Ohio consumer law: ohioattorneygeneral.gov/Files/Publications-Files/Publications-for-Business/Complying-With-Ohio-Consumer-Law-A-Guide-for-Busin.

Zoning Requirements

Zoning is a process used by local governments to determine allowable activities on a specific property. Zoning laws can affect many facets of your business, including what can be built on a property, what activities are allowed and even if your company can operate at a specific location. Therefore, it is important to check with your local zoning authority to determine if the neighborhood zoning laws allow for that type of business in that location.

Patent Requirements

The U.S. Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) is an agency of the U.S. Department of Commerce and issues patents for protection of inventions and trademarks.

To receive a patent, an application must be filed in the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. There are three types of applications that may be filed. They are: utility, design and plant. There are various application fees depending on the patent you are applying for.

1. Utility patents should be applied for by those who “invent or discover any new and useful process, machine, article of manufacture, or compositions of matters, or any new useful improvement thereof.”
2. Design patents should be applied for by those who “invent a new, original and ornamental design for an article of manufacture.”
3. Plant patents should be applied for by those who “invent or discover and asexually reproduces any distinct and new variety of plant.”

What is a Copyright?

Copyright is a form of protection provided to the authors of “original works of authorship,” including literary, dramatic, musical, artistic and certain other intellectual works, both published and unpublished. The 1976 Copyright Act generally gives the owner of copyright the exclusive right to reproduce the copyrighted work, to prepare derivative works, to distribute copies of the copyrighted work, to perform the copyrighted work publicly or to display the copyrighted work publicly.

The copyright protects the form of expression rather than the subject matter of the writing. For example, a description of a machine could be copyrighted, but this would only protect against others copying the description; it would not protect others from writing a description of their own or from making and using the machine. Copyrights are registered by the Copyright Office of the Library of Congress.

To contact the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, go to uspto.gov or call (800) 786-9199.
